Illawarra local wins Not-for-Profit Leader Scholarship

The Australian Institute of Company Directors is pleased to announce that Derrick Hubble from Thirroul is one of the recipients of the 2018 AICD Not-for-Profit Scholarships program.

Under the program, there were 20 scholarships on offer for New South Wales directors to undertake one of the AICD's highly-regarded education programs, including the NFP Foundations of Directorship.

The AICD Not-for-Profit Scholarships program forms part of the AICD's strong commitment to the NFP sector. Two-thirds of the AICD's 43,000-strong membership play some role in the not-for-profit sector.

Hubble works as CEO of The Childrens Tumour Foundation, which provides information, resources and support services to children, their families and adults living with neurofibromatosis.

AICD NSW State Manager Duane Findley congratulated Hubble and wished him well in his studies.

"The AICD has a commitment to excellence in governance across Australia. Our commitment extends to providing educational and development opportunities through scholarships, to those who might not otherwise have been able to access them," he said.

"Our 43,000 members recognise that providing these scholarship opportunities helps to strengthen governance performance and transforms careers, companies, and communities."

Hubble said he was excited to have won a not-for-profit scholarship, and looked forward to helping his NFP by learning more about governance.

"Governance is an increasingly important attribute for any organisation," he said. "I wanted to ensure I was equipped with all the latest information to stay in front."

AICD Managing Director & CEO Angus Armour said that NFPs were an essential part of Australia's social fabric.

"NFPs face a number of challenges, especially as many operate with tight budgets and in an increasingly complex and constantly evolving operating environment. Having the governance expertise to steer them to success cannot be taken for granted."
