AICD announces 2019 Central Queensland regional scholarship

The Australian Institute of Company Directors (AICD) has announced that applications are open for a full scholarship for a high calibre applicant to undertake the Company Directors Course in Central Queensland.

This is an exciting opportunity for a locally-based director or executive to participate in the AICD's flagship course which will be held in Rockhampton from September 4-6 and September 19-20, 2019. The course covers the essentials of governance for companies of all sizes, not-for-profit organisations and public sector agencies. It is ideal for any current or aspiring director as well as senior business executives wishing to update their knowledge.

The recipient will benefit from governance education and the networking opportunities which are an invaluable part of the program. Melissa Dennis, the winner of last year's scholarship said,

"I found the course to be extremely valuable. The standard of the presenters was excellent, and I have been able to apply some of the learnings to my current role as Manager People Services at Gladstone Regional Council."

"AICD is committed to supporting regional directors and members throughout Queensland. We're pleased to be able to offer this scholarship to our regional members to enable them to participate in our popular Company Directors Course," said Melanie Mayne-Wilson, State Manager, QLD AICD.

Applicants must download the form on the link listed below and submit it by Friday July 5, 2019:
